Guildal Lecture

Torsdag d. 25. oktober 2018

Kl. 11:00 – 12:00
Lokale: Copenhagen/Stockholm/Helsinki/Oslo

«Precision medicine, the survival estimation"

Jonathan A. Forsberg MD PhD
Orthopaedic Oncology
Sibley Memorial Hospital
Johns Hopkins University
Baltimore, USA

Dr. Jonathan Forsberg, is an internationally recognized Orthopaedic Oncologist and Clinician-Scientist. He practices at the Murtha Cancer Center at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center, the National Cancer Institute, and Johns Hopkins University.
The great grandson of Swedish immigrants, Jonathan grew up in the mountains of Montana. He began his military career as a Marine Corps infantryman and later graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland. After medical school and residency he completed fellowship training in Orthopaedic Oncology at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City.

Dr. Forsberg maintains a strong connection to his Swedish heritage, and was recently awarded the Ellis Island Medal of Honor, one of America's most prestigious awards.

Jonathan lives in Kensington Maryland with his wife Dawn, and two daughters Linnea and Sofia. In his spare time, he teaches professional writing to international graduate students and sails competitively with his friends and family in the Etchells Class.